Call for Proposals

As part of CUNY’s leading role in the movement to provide expanded access and services to neurodiverse students on the college campus, the Central Office of Student Affairs Disability Services and Borough of Manhattan Community College are partnering to host the 1st Annual CUNY Neurodiversity Conference.

CUNY’s two signature neurodiversity initiatives, Project REACH and CUNY Unlimited, will join with stakeholders to share best practices for supporting students while they’re in college and during transitions to and from campus.

We invite proposals from universities, organizations, businesses, or providers serving neurodiverse populations for one-hour breakout sessions. Proposals including students are encouraged.

Suggested Topic Areas:

- Universal Design for Learning
- Strategies for Competitive Employment
- Academic Progress and Support
- Social Inclusion
- Benefits Education & Advisement
- Independent Living
- Transition to/from College

Proposal Guidelines

Abstract (~200 words)

The abstract should describe the content and significance of the session. Participants will be most interested in new information, innovative programs, and proven results. Please indicate if your session will focus on intellectual disability or autism.

Intended Audience & Expected Learning Outcomes

Please indicate who would best benefit from attending this session, and describe—or list—the outcomes with which you hope the audience members will leave the session.

Please submit proposals to Jenna.Lamm@cuny.edu no later than 1/1/17.
