21. Export Control Training and Assessment
This Section addresses ongoing compliance training at CUNY and periodically assessing compliance procedures.

Training
In addition to annual export control training sessions open to faculty and administrators, OVCR makes available ongoing export briefing sessions on an as-needed basis. These sessions are designed to answer specific questions pertaining to research and international collaborative endeavors. Export Control Administrators of the individual Colleges are also expected to raise awareness and provide ongoing training at their respective College. The U.S. Government’s export control authorities consider awareness training a key element of a compliance program, and it is CUNY’s intention to familiarize faculty and staff as comprehensively as possible on these requirements. In this regard, the OVCR and the Export Control Administrators will maintain training logs of the training they provide. The log shall include the date of training, list of attendees and outline of training content.

Contact OVCR or your Export Control Administrator to learn about the next scheduled Export Control training or to arrange customized briefing sessions.

Export Assessment
CUNY’s Export Assessment program is designed to identify and address export compliance gaps and weaknesses. CUNY requires assessments on a priority basis, as determined by campus Deans and administrators. Where a compliance exposure is discovered, corrective action procedures shall be implemented and, depending on the particular circumstances, a Voluntary Disclosure Notification to the appropriate government agency shall be initiated.
