Moving from Associate to Full Professor

A workshop series and funding opportunity for CUNY Associate Professors

Spring 2016
Request for Proposals

Application Deadline: May 26, 2016

A. ELIGIBILITY
CUNY Associate Professors who participated in both Spring 2016 sessions of the Moving from Associate to Full Professor workshop series are eligible to apply for funding to assist in their progress toward promotion to full Professor.

B. FUNDING
Eligible faculty may apply for two types of funding as indicated below.

1. Course release ($4000 per course release) to be used in Fall 2016, Spring 2017 or Fall 2017.
   - The course release must be used to make progress on at least two major research, scholarly or creative projects that are relevant to the applicant’s promotion to full Professor and will be submitted or completed by December 31, 2017.
   - We anticipate that 8 awards for course release will be made.
     o Only one course release will be awarded per person
     o Because the availability of course releases is so limited, applicants who apply for a course release are also encouraged to apply for one of the smaller awards indicated below in #2, but please note that applicants awarded a course release will not be awarded additional funds.

2. Scholarly support (up to $500 each) for a variety of activities that are relevant to the applicant’s promotion to full Professor and will be submitted or completed by December 31, 2017, including:
   - to pay up an expert in the applicant’s field to review and comment on drafts of documents (e.g., a manuscript for publication, a grant proposal, a curriculum proposal).
   - to pay a statistical or other technical consultant to assist with a manuscript, grant proposal or creative work.
   - to pay an editor to edit a manuscript or grant proposal. This will be primarily available to faculty for whom English is not a first language.
   - for other requests that are directly tied to outcomes critical to the applicant’s promotion (e.g., publications, grant proposals, the completion/performance of creative works)
   - We anticipate that up to 42 scholarly support awards (of up to $500 each) will be made. Awards will be made in the form of tax-levy funds.
C. THE PROPOSAL

In addition to completing the online portion of the proposal (see item G below for details), applicants must submit the following three or four components:

1. Project Description (no more than 1 single-spaced page per project)
   - The description should include a statement of the problem or area of scholarly inquiry or creative activity and its significance to the field, the methods to be used and the expected results or outcomes.
   - The description should be written for an educated audience of non-specialists.
   - As indicated above in B1, requests for a course release must propose at least two major research, scholarly or creative projects

2. Description of how this/these project(s) will help move the applicant toward promotion to full Professor. This section should:
   - address the importance of the project(s) to the applicant’s promotion to full Professor given the practices, procedures and norms related to promotion in the applicant’s department and college. Requests for a course release must also justify why a course release is necessary to complete the proposed projects.
   - indicate how the requested resource(s) will be used to advance the project(s). If applicants are applying for more than one type of funding (e.g., a course release and $500 in other support), they should clearly indicate how each type of support will advance the project(s).
   - include a timeline that
     - indicates when the applicant hopes to submit his/her promotion dossier
     - makes it clear that the proposed project(s) can be completed/submitted/exhibited/performed by December 31, 2017

3. An up-to-date, comprehensive CV

4. For those applying a course release: A letter of support from your department chair. See Appendix A on page 4 for a suggested template for this letter.

Before submitting the proposal online, the project description, description of how the project will help advance the applicant toward promotion, CV and letter of support (if required) must be combined into a single pdf file. Please name your proposal as follows:
